Wake up with Bagatelle

Here in LA, we sure love to brunch, and why the hell not? Wake up, drink up, stuff your face, sounds great! Bagatelle in West Hollywood opened their doors to us to try out their new Saturday brunch. Since they also added some new items to their brunch menu, we couldn't wait to try them.

UP AND AT 'EM! Classic mimosas can do no wrong. Drink a glass or two and you'll feel just as fancy as this french restaurant.

GOOD MORNING!! We started off with the Tuna Tartar – yellow-fin tuna, avocado, soy citrus vinaigrette, and taro chips. This savory treat is fresh and is one of the most popular dishes at Bagatelle for a reason.

WAKE UP FOR! Bagatelle Waffles – Caramelized bananas, whipped crème fraiche, and cognac maple glaze. This was our favorite sweet breakfast item. The cognac maple glaze and crème fraiche are the wow factor of this awesomely moist dish. Delicious!

HIT THE SNOOZE. Brioche French Toast – homemade strawberry, maple marmalade, and whipped crème fraiche. Sadly this french toast (a holdover from the old menu) looks better than it tasted. With a pretty dense bread, it was a little too dry for us.

RISE AND

SHINE! Soft Boiled Eggs and Caviar – sturgeon caviar, crème fraiche, and toast. This is a great savory dish. I didn't think I'd care for the caviar very much but I find myself craving this salty soft dish. A great compliment to the sweet French Toast.

TOP OF THE

MORNING! Not only is the food top notch, so is the entertainment. Bagatelle really brings the room together with a R&B singer and it really makes brunch even more fun.

If you have the means, go check out Bagatelle in West Hollywood. It's a great place to impress out of town guests, and even celebrate special occasions. Who doesn't love a birthday brunch?
