

April 22, 2014

Food in the News

This $1,000 Ice Cream Sundae Has a Ring On the Side

All of you fans of exorbitantly rich ice cream sundaes should head to Bagatelle restaurant in New York City. The eatery recently added a $1,000 ice cream sundae to its menu. The huge sundae features "homemade vanilla ice cream, chocolate truffles, homemade French macaroons, Dom Perignon Rose sorbet with gold leaves, chocolate vodka sauce, gilded brownies and fresh whipped cream." If you're thinking that doesn't sound like $1,000 worth of ingredients, you're right. Sundae purchasers also receive an exclusive Mauboussin ring made of black steel and white gold.

Would you pay $1,000 for an ice cream sundae?