

April 24, 2014

Veggie Ice Cream, Dining-Room Rug Rules and a Problem-Solving 3D-Printed Ketchup Cap

In Other Food News: A proposed 2-percent tax on junk food like chips, cookies and sodas failed to pass a Navajo Nation Tribal Council vote on Tuesday, but the measure still has widespread support, and advocates have vowed to revive it. [AP] New York restaurant Bagatelle has added a $1,000 ice cream sundae to its menu; the "Mauboussin Mega Sundae" includes vanilla ice cream, Dom Perignon Rose sorbet, chocolate truffles, macarons, whipped cream, chocolate vodka sauce, "gilded brownies," gold-leaf sprinkles and (on the side) a black steel/white gold Mauboussin ring that, on its own, retails for $530. Such a deal. [Eater NY] Gene Simmons and Paul Stanley, co-founders of the band KISS, are opening a branch of their Rock & Brews restaurants in Overland Park, Kansas, on April 29; the menu features "opening acts" like chipotle chili cheese fries, "VIP" salads and "headliner" sandwiches. No word on whether you can order tongue. [Kansas City Star]